HISTORY

Grand Hotel Kronenhof has a rich and interesting history, having first opened its doors in 1848 as the Rössli guesthouse. In its cellars, a Veltliner wine shop was established, along with stabling for the horses that transported the wines over the Bernina Pass.

In the second half of the 19th century, the guesthouse business flourished and the then owner, Lorenz Gredig, extended the premises. The main section of the current hotel, which is a registered historical landmark, was built at the end of the 19th century in Neo-Baroque style, opening in 1898; it was at this point that the hotel was renamed the Grand Hotel Kronenhof & Bellavista.

In the first half of the 20th century, tourism to the Engadine was greatly affected by the two world wars and it was mainly thanks to the wine trade in the cellars that the business survived. It was only when St. Moritz hosted a second Winter Olympics in 1948 that guests started returning to the valley in greater numbers.

In 2004, Grand Hotel Kronenhof was bought by the Niarchos family, who have invested heavily in the property. A CHF 35 million extension was completed in November 2007 consisting of a large underground car park, 28 new guest rooms and a stunning spa complex covering more than 2000 square metres.

Since 2016, there has been an ongoing programme of refurbishment, including the creation of 28 new rooms and suites, as well as the bel étage (the reception, lobby lounge, reading room, bar, cigar lounge and billiards room) in the historic part of the hotel, overseen by the well-known French interior designer by Pierre-Yves Rochon.

PONTRESINA & THE ENGADINE

Pontresina enjoys a sunny, sheltered location at the entrance to the Val Bernina in the Upper Engadine, the southern-most high valley of the Alps, in the Swiss canton of Graubunden.

The village, which has just over 2000 permanent residents, welcomed its first tourists as early as the 19th century. Many of them were British, enjoying a spot of mountaineering during the warmer summer months.

Pontresina's charm lies in the architectural blend of fine old Engadine houses with their typical "sgraffito" (decorated walls) from the 17th & 18th centuries and elegant Belle Epoque style buildings.

Close to the two most famous peaks of the Engadine (Piz Palu and Piz Bernina), the village is a real paradise for mountain enthusiasts, particularly those who enjoy ice-climbing, ski touring, snowshoeing and cross-country skiing in winter, and hiking and biking in summer, as well as those seeking a quiet, relaxing break away from it all in an exceptionally beautiful setting.

Grand Hotel Kronenhof has several restaurants where diners can enjoy a variety of culinary experiences.

Breakfast and dinner are served in the magnificent Grand Restaurant, with its beautiful ceiling frescoes by Otto Haberer, dazzling chandeliers and a minstrels' gallery. The award-winning gourmet restaurant Kronenstübli, with its original Engadine furniture and Swiss-pine panelling, is a piece of living history. Lunch can be taken on the terrace of the old wooden Le Pavillon in the garden and afternoon tea in the majestic lobby, followed by cocktails in the legendary Kronenhof Bar (with its large selection of gins) that has recently undergone a complete transformation by Pierre-Yves Rochon. For those wishing to dip into a Swiss fondue or raclette, these dishes are offered once a week in the cosy, historic bowling alley.

Under the 'Dine Around' umbrella, guests staying on a half-board basis can also eat dinner in the restaurants of the Kulm Hotel, the Kronenhof's sister property in St. Moritz.

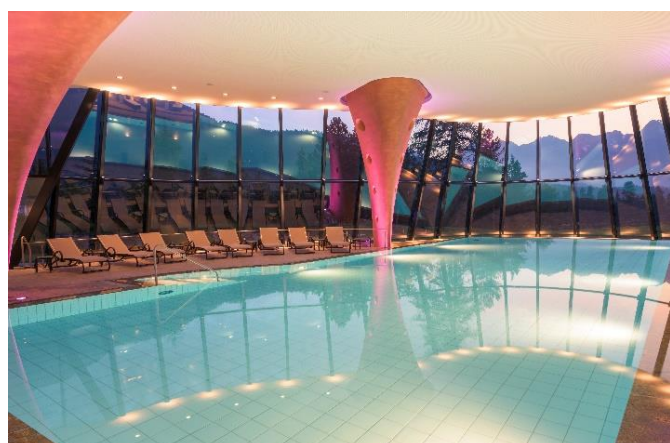

KRONENHOF SPA

The 2,000 m² Kronenhof Spa has been designed as a place for peace and warmth, as well as indulgence and relaxation, so that guests emerge with their bodies, minds and souls re-energized and re-invigorated. Wellness packages include a day (or three) with a mind coach and a yoga summit.

One of the most impressive wellness complexes in the Swiss Alps, the spa has a 20m indoor infinity pool that seems to stretch away towards the mountains, a spa pool with water jets, a relaxing flotation room with underwater music, a saltwater grotto, saunas, steam rooms, Kneipp footbaths and a solarium.

There is a state-of-the-art Technogym and a personal trainer, who oversees group and individual gym sessions, Pilates, yoga and TRX. Guided mountain hiking and biking tours in summer, as well as snow shoe hiking in winter, are also available. After all that activity, a relaxation room with water beds and a crackling log fire lulls guests to sleep.

The Spa also has 13 therapy and treatment rooms, where fully-trained therapists provide facial and body treatments, massages and beauty treatments. The pièce de la resistance is the Kronenhof Spa's private suite, where couples can enjoy a hydro jet bath together, followed by a refreshing body scrub in the steam bath and an aroma massage, before lounging on a double waterbed admiring the dramatic mountain vista, while savouring small and exquisite delicacies and a glass of Champagne.

Step outside the Spa and there is grassy terrace dotted with sun loungers in summer, as well as a series of spa platforms overlooking the Flaz river and the beautiful Staz forest with the glistening Val Roseg glacier in the distance that are perfect for socially-distanced yoga, Pilates and meditation classes.

ACTIVITIES

With no downhill skiing slopes to call its own, Pontresina is better known for other winter sports, such as ice climbing in its gorge, snowshoe and winter hiking along 150km of paths, tobogganing down the nearby slope of Muottas Muragl (following a spectacular funicular ride to the top) and cross-country skiing along 180km of designated trails, not forgetting skating on the hotel's very own natural ice rink. Romantic horse-drawn sleigh rides into the Val Roseg are another popular pastime in winter, tucked in with woollen blankets and a mug of gluhwein in hand.

One of the village's largest events in the winter season is the Engadine Ski Marathon (and Half Marathon), which always draws a huge crowd, both to participate and spectate. Other events in the village and surrounding area include music festivals of a classical and blues nature.
